COACHING PASSION

My passion for coaching is rooted in helping people rediscover their capability and step into greater levels of clarity, responsibility, and personal leadership. After decades of working with individuals and teams across business environments, I have seen that real growth happens when people are challenged to think differently about themselves and their potential. My coaching focuses on practical insight, honest reflection, and purposeful action. I enjoy guiding professionals to unlock their strengths, navigate complexity, and move forward with confidence and accountability. Seeing individuals grow into stronger versions of themselves, make better decisions, and create meaningful impact in their work and lives is what drives my commitment to coaching.

WORK EXPERIENCE

With a background in Industrial Engineering, over 30 years of combined experience in project management, manufacturing, automotive, heavy engineering and retail, I have successfully led cross-functional teams and developed strategic plans to drive business growth and improvement, resulting in significant business gains. Providing insights and adding value as a Global Manufacturing Committee Member has afforded me the opportunities and exposure to world-leading technological and people-management solutions. I have collaborated with global teams to develop and implement manufacturing strategies and best practices, providing strategic guidance and solution-based performance metrics to drive up operational excellence.

COACHING EXPERIENCE

I have worked with numerous clients across various industries, including executives, managers, supervisors, team-leaders, entrepreneurs and individuals. My focus areas cover: 1) The individual: helping clients understand who they are, their strengths and areas of required development. 2) The business client: applying and making use of proven frameworks, methodologies and a systematic approach to bringing about holistic performance improvements. 3) Team dynamics: having developed high-performance teams by fostering true collaboration, role clarification and accountability. With my extensive experience, combined with my passion for coaching, I am confident that I can help you achieve your goals and realise your full potential.
